Dulles In London For Disarm Talks

Stresses Open Skies Inspection

LONDON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said Monday night the United States is hopeful some practical beginning to disarmament can be made soon by the East and West.

Dulles flew to London at President Eisenhower's request to judge the progress of the snail-paced negotiations in the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee and to appraise the prospects of a limited accord.

He emphasized the importance to world peace of Eisenhower's "open skies" inspection plan for reducing the danger of surprise attacks. The stress he placed on it appeared to be especially significant.

The secretary reminded airport newsmen in a prepared statement the President's plan was launched at the Geneva Big Four summit conference two years ago and added:

"Every month that passes without agreement magnifies the problem of disarmament."

"Now we are engaged in negotiations toward a first step agreement which will include measures to reduce the danger of surprise attack."

U.S. Hopeful

"The United States is hopeful, as is all the world, that some practical beginning can soon be made. If it be demonstrated that the danger of surprise attack can be and will be reduced, it should be more possible to make progress in reducing the burden of armaments and solving the grave political problems which endanger peace."

Western diplomats have been saying for two or three weeks there have been little or no hope that the subcommittee—made up of representatives of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Soviet Russia—will produce any effective agreement soon to (Continued on Page Seven)

Reach Agreement With Top Firm In Cement Strike

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A nationwide strike in the cement industry began falling apart Monday as plant after plant fell in line with an agreement reached here with Universal Atlas Cement Co.

Indications were that something approaching normal production in the industry would be reached by mid-week. The companies were able to begin shipments to customers immediately because of a large inventory that was on hand when the strike began May 15 and gradually spread, halting millions of dollars in construction work.

Meetings with individual plants were scheduled in rapid fire order. Tony Gallo, general secretary treasurer of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers Union said "I think everybody will go along."

Universal Atlas is one of the seven leading producers in the nation. The agreement reached here Saturday night affected only its Northampton, Pa., plant but immediately set the pattern for settlements which have followed.

Drought Stricken Northeast Gets Rain

NEW YORK (AP)—Crop-refreshing rain, combined with forecasts for more of the same this week, gave encouragement to many farmers in the drought stricken Northeast Monday.

A million-dollar cloudburst dumped more than an inch of rain on eastern Long Island, saving parched crops there. The 45-minute downpour reduced to a minimum the need for further irrigation, a farmers' spokesman said.

Elsewhere in New York State, torrential rains eased the drought in the Northern Hudson Valley, but the crop situation remained critical in Lower Hudson Valley. Some sections of the state will get an additional half inch of rain by Saturday, and other localities will get much more, the U. S. Weather Bureau said.

Massachusetts meteorologists also predicted a half inch of rain during the week. Sixteen cloud-seeding machines were sent out with the hope of supplementing the predicted rainfall.

North Brookfield later reported a light steady rainfall that was believed to be following a path set up by cloud seeding.

The state Department of Agriculture reported "a lot of rain" in the central part of Massachusetts, but severe drought conditions prevailed in the southeastern sections.

Connecticut farmers sought additional relief through an emergency irrigation system set up with Civil Defense equipment.

In New Hampshire, weekend showers and additional rain Monday were considered sufficient to relieve the immediate high forest fire hazard. More showers were forecast.

A torrent of rain hit the Philadelphia area Sunday, but without providing marked drought relief.

Fresh rains also swept sporadically through New Jersey Monday, falling most heavily in non-agricultural areas, they did little to revive scorched crops. The drought is considered the worst in New Jersey in more than 100 years.

Little Interest In Election For McCarthy's Seat

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Wisconsin selects nominees for the unexpired term of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R) Tuesday, amid indications that citizens are more interested in farm harvesting or vacations than in voting.

Only about 25 percent of the 2,200,000 eligible voters are expected to turn out for the primary. On the Republican ballot will be seven candidates, while two Democrats are seeking their party's nomination for the election Aug. 27. The election will be for the term which expires in January, 1959.

Wisconsin's economy is geared to agriculture and the vacation business. Harvesting of oats is at full swing as is the tourist trade. Of the primary campaign and considerable apathy among city people, hint a very light vote.

Because of the expected turnout, political observers have been cautious in their appraisal of the results. Four Republican candidates are all given a chance, with former Gov. Walter J. Kohler and former Rep. Glenn R. Davis believed to be the frontrunners.

Charge Banker Stole $22,600, Set Fire To Records

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Charles Norman Van Arsdale, a small, thin man in tortoise shell glasses, was held in $2,500 bail Monday charged with stealing $22,600 from the bank he managed, then setting fire to the records and trying to commit suicide.

Van Arsdale, secretary manager of the Marconi Savings and Loan Ass., a federally insured bank, was held for a grand jury after his hearing before U.S. Commissioner Henry P. Carr. The FBI said he had signed a confession.

Charles E. Ganley, an FBI agent, told Carr that Van Arsdale, 41, admitted entering the association's vault Saturday when the office was closed and jimmying open five cash boxes containing the money.

The agent said Van Arsdale then took the money to the home of friends and asked them to hold it for him, telling them the package contained a birthday present for his wife, Harriet.

In his testimony, Ganley said Van Arsdale returned to the bank Sunday intending to commit suicide, but was not seriously wounded when he shot himself in the chest. Then, the agent said, the banker set fire to newspapers in a vault and started a flash fire.

Van Arsdale's predecessor, Vincent R. Persichetti and his wife, Martha, were accused of a $150,000 shortage from the loan association. The husband was acquitted and the wife convicted.

Advise Gearing Industry To Mobilization Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon was advised Monday to gear industry more closely into its mobilization plans so industry will be better prepared to switch quickly and effectively to wartime production if necessary.

"A buildup of weapons production after a nuclear attack is not sound," said the National Security Assn. in a report to Asst. Secretary of Defense J. Perkins McGuire.

The report was prepared at the Defense Department's request by a committee representing 79 companies engaged in defense production.

The group was headed by E. B. English of the Caterpillar Tractor Co. of Peoria, Ill.

The industrialists said "we must be able to literally push buttons and effect almost instantaneous momentum toward the immediate mobilization demands."

The stressed that production allocation planning must be based on both military and civilian needs for "small, peripheral wars."

Some things they recommended were freedom from government supervision to carry out their mobilization missions; coordination of government information to determine critical needs and mobilization capabilities; government guidance on the probable availability of manpower, machine tools and material at mobilization time; as little secrecy as possible so industry can be told its role and thereby plan intelligently.

R. N. McFarland, executive director of the association, wrote McGuire that because the report was made public it "could not review the latest plans for ministering the country in the event of a devastating nuclear attack."

However, he wrote, "It seems (Continued on Page Seven)

Hospitals Say Mexican Youth With Polio Not Denied Entry

ALEDO, Ill. (AP)—Claims that a 15-year-old migrant farm worker suffering from polio was refused entry by two Iowa hospitals because his Mexican-born parents had no money brought a denial Monday night.

The boy, Carlos Rodriguez Jr., died Sunday in Lutheran Hospital, Moline, Ill. He became ill about a week ago, shortly after he came here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Rodriguez, and some 35 other Mexican migrant farm workers. The Rodriguez family had been living in Texas but their address there was not known.

Stanley Foote, of Aledo, chairman of the Mercer County polo chapter, said he was told by the older Rodriguez that he and his wife tried home remedies on their son. As the illness worsened, they said they tried to have him admitted to hospitals in Muscatine and Davenport, Iowa, "but were refused admittance because the family had no money."

"That is incorrect," Foote said Monday night. He said an investigation showed the boy was admitted to the Muscatine General Hospital last Thursday night, given chest X-ray and an examination by a physician and told to return the following day.

J. W. Meyers, administrator of the Muscatine hospital, said the boy was not kept overnight "because he was not an emergency case and efforts were going to be made to get him admitted to the University Hospital at Iowa City."

Meyers said the Rodriguez family did not return.

Foote said he was unable to find any Davenport Hospital where the family had sought admittance for their son.

Walter Dixon, operator of the farm on which the Rodriguezes worked, called in Foote last Friday night to examine the boy. "It was apparent that he had polio," Foote said. "His entire right side was (Continued on Page Seven)

Assures Tourists All's Calm

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexicans tackled demolition work in businesslike fashion Monday and weighed the damage wrought on one of their chief tourist attractions by Sunday's quake.

Leaning walls were knocked over and bulldozers plowed through mountains of mortar to clear away debris.

The known death toll stood at 46. Estimates of the injured rose as high as 650.

The Tourist Bureau, interested in maintaining the flow of visitors from the United States and elsewhere, hastened to issue a statement that all was calm. It said few of the tourist sights had been damaged and that hotels, restaurants and transportation were about normal.

But tourists may brace themselves for a few changes.

Monday he sat in what he termed "an antiquated dungeon" jail cell of the Randolph County Jail and asked to be let out again.

Douglas, 32, of Coulterville, wants 31 days' lodging in a "more modern jail." He didn't dream authorities would put him in the county jail when he asked to finish the 44 remaining days of his parole behind bars.

Convicted Sex Offender Pleads Innocent To Murder Charge In Slaying Of Brothers

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP)—Raymond F. Ohlson, 20-year-old convicted sex offender, pleaded innocent Monday to murder charges in the brutal slaying of two devoted young brothers in a woodland glen.

Innocent pleas are mandatory in capital cases under Massachusetts law.

Ohlson was held without bond by Judge Maurice J. Murphy in Brockton District Court. The case was continued to Aug. 3.

Ohlson is charged with repeatedly slaying John Logan, 12, and his brother Edward, 11, Friday after forcing them at knifepoint into woods from a public pond.

The bodies of the brothers, whose mother said they were virtually inseparable, were found Saturday, nude and partly charred, under a mound of smoldering brush. They were tied together at the wrists.

Plymouth County Dist. Atty. John R. Wheatley declined comment on published reports quoting him as saying the boys, who lived in nearby Stoughton, were alive when their slayer heaped brush on them and ignited it.

Wheatley said the cause of death

Answer To Zhukov

That President Eisenhower and Russia's Marshal Zhukov found time in the course of their wartime friendship to debate the comparative merits of democracy and communism provides a fascinating footnote to history. But the recent attention focused on this debate by the President's comments has its perils for those who would truly understand these rival systems.

All the evidence we have of the Eisenhower-Zhukov discussions indicates that neither democracy nor communism was accurately defined by the respective advocates. Consequently, the attempt to compare them bogged down sadly in the marshes of unreality.

As soldiers, Mr. Eisenhower and Zhukov perhaps could not be expected to view their particular systems in just the light civilian leaders see them. Soldiers are absorbed in the performance of specialized duties quite apart from the channels of normal civilian life.

Let us look first at Mr. Eisenhower's side of this. He says frankly he was hard put to counter Zhukov's argument that communism appeals to the idealistic because it allows people to sacrifice themselves to the State, whereas democracy appeals to the materialistic because anyone can do as he pleases.

No one questions for an instant the President's intense faith in democracy nor his deep wish to guard and nurture it. But presumably he could have defended it with more authority and vigor had he not led so specialized a life and had he enjoyed fuller familiarity with the day-to-day workings of civilian democracy.

It is not true of democracy, nor has it ever been, that a man can do as he pleases. Anyone who imagines it is can set himself straight in a hurry by conducting a few simple experiments:

Try driving down a city street at 60 miles an hour. Try not filing an income tax return. Try walking off with your neighbor's TV set. Try collecting unemployment compensation when you're working. And so on.

The point is that in a democracy, our individual behavior is hedged about by a complex system of laws—laws administered by federal, state and local governments. Thus we are ruled by what Zhukov calls the State just as are other peoples under different systems.

The critical difference is that we are so ruled in particular areas of life only when we—the people—have solemnly decided by our own votes or through our chosen representatives that such control is wise and necessary.

In a democracy that "State" exists for the people, not the people for the State. The State is useful only insofar as it serves them.

They permit it to be extended only as it can be shown that such extension is essential and good. The State in a democracy is not an opposite condition to freedom. It is the protector and guarantor of freedom.

The hardest, most delicate choices the people must make are those which allow new encroachments by government. For it must always be shown that the advantage in total liberty and enriched life offsets the evident loss.

It is democracy, not communism, that should appeal to the idealistic. Only democracy of all systems is so constructed as to exalt the human individual, to afford him his fullest chance for personal development, to safeguard his dignity, his privacy, his uniqueness. These are the priceless ingredients of freedom.

In such a system a man cannot as Zhukov said, do as he pleases. But neither can any other human on earth. The individual in a democracy can do what he wants so long as it does not encroach upon the equally strong rights of others like himself.

HOLLYWOOD (P)—Meet Tania Vella—the Iron Curtain's answer to Marilyn Monroe.

Tania, a 22-year-old brown-eyed blonde beauty, is only two years removed from Marshall Tito's Yugoslavia. Endowed with all the physical assets that made Monroe famous, Tania makes a statement that could send every red-blooded American male to that Iron Curtain country.

In Yugoslavia, she insists, "I was considered very ugly."

Of course that was a few years ago, when she was a railroad section hand.

"It's very difficult for a girl to be pretty while swinging a pick and shovel," she admits.

She explains that in Yugoslavia vacationing high school students often are put on work gangs. "It's hard for me to convince American people that I once helped build a railroad," she laughs.

She soon decided that there were easier ways of making a living. So, in a manner of speaking, she swam her way to America.

"In Yugoslavia," she insists, "I was the athlete—so I became a swimmer," she said.

She became so proficient at the aquatic sport that she made the 1952 Yugoslav Olympic team.

"The team did not go to the Helsinki games," she said, "because once before another similar team left the country and didn't return."

However, the team did go to Austria in 1955. The rest of the team returned home—but not Tania.

She was able to get to the American zone and convince officials there that she was a political immigrant. An aunt who already lived in the United States helped her to get to this country.

Asked if she had ever met Tito, she said yes—"Just once. And I found him a very charming man."

Tania, who had been an actress in her native country, made her living around New York singing in night clubs. She came to Hollywood only two months ago and looked up a magazine photographer named Eddie Rocco.

Rocco became her business agent and took her to Warners.

The studio now has her under option and is giving her voice and acting lessons in an effort to cut her accent.

There was one other link with Monroe in the east she once dated Joe DiMaggio for two weeks.

Question of Using Troops Had a Long Background

BY PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The recent debate on the use of federal troops to enforce provisions of the civil rights bill now before the Senate had a strange background. It wasn't a new surprise package.

The same provisions were in the civil rights bill which passed the House last year and this. They were fully debated both times. Then in a California speech before the Democratic national convention in Chicago in 1956 Candidate Adlai Stevenson declared he was opposed to the use of federal troops to enforce civil rights decisions.

This was an obvious political bid for Southern delegates. It caused a mild stir because up to then not even the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People had been advocating use of troops to secure civil rights.

Actually, "the use of troops" was not specifically mentioned in so many words in the disputed enforcement Part III of the proposed legislation. The reference is in a routine legal citation to the numbers of statutes already on the books. They empower the President to enforce the Constitution and the law of the land, which he is sworn to do anyway.

SO EVEN ROY WILKINS, executive secretary of NAACP, now declares that, "We don't see any particular loss if the reference to troops were deleted from the civil rights legislation."

While the people with the greatest interest in the civil rights bill are thus willing to accept an amendment on the use of troops provision—or any other clarifying amendment—they still do not want the entire Part III eliminated.

The reason for this is that in the last few years a number of Southern states have passed laws denying Negroes the right to bring suit for privileges supposedly guaranteed them by the Constitution. NAACP is even barred from giving them legal aid to obtain these rights.

If these states are now successful in eliminating the federal enforcement provisions of the civil rights legislation, it will completely hamstring the Negro citizen and make him legally and politically helpless in these states.

BARN FIND

CRETE, Neb. (P)—Les Burch, a telephone lineman, bought an old barn at auction for $35.

It turned out to be a profitable purchase.

While wrecking the building, he found a tin can containing four $20 gold pieces and three $10 pieces, all in mint condition.

Dates on the coins ranged from 1881 to 1900.

Public health officials and virus scientists are working furiously to try to develop some defense against the influenza epidemic now sweeping parts of Asia. It is a complicated task.

Public health officials in Washington have great hope for a new serum developed at Walter Reed Army Medical Center there. But it is a preventive, not a cure.

Whether this current outbreak of influenza will develop into another worldwide epidemic such as occurred in 1917-18 is still uncertain. So far—as is characteristic of the severe influenza epidemics of the past—this has started out as a relatively mild disease.

While it has attacked vast numbers of people, comparatively few have died from it.

HOWEVER, when similar epidemics of the past have spread they have also become more dangerous. In 1917-18, for example, flu and its complications killed more people in the United States than we lost by combat in World War I.

We have had a good deal of flu since that great disaster, but not yet on the same scale. Indeed it is uncertain why these great worldwide epidemics appear and what makes them different from the influenza existing in between.

NEVERTHELESS, much more is known about flu than was known 40 years ago. At that time it was not even known that it was caused by a virus.

Now we know that there are three main kinds of virus involved—A, B and C.

However, there are also strains within these main types so that it has proved extremely difficult to develop an effective vaccine which would prevent attack by all flu-causing viruses.

It seems that the present Asian flu is caused by Type A virus. At least three strains have been isolated from victims of the disease.

OF COURSE, it is possible that the virus will die out by itself.

Ever roast a shoulder of lamb? Have the butcher bone and roll it.

Last year's entry list totaled 171, which was an all-time record for the junior fair.
"Deducting isn't having a horse show this year," Hudson said in explaining the new record. "The Decatur show was held on the same dates as ours, and many of the stables that went there are coming here this year. It's bound to make a much better show."
Rex Parkinson Stables and Frank Corrie, both of Decatur, are coming over.

Seventh Son, a two year old son of Masterpiece, has been entered in this show by Mr. and Mrs. Taylor of Germantown, Tenn. Masterpiece was sold for the unusual price of $25,000 and a brother of Seventh Son was sold for $30,000.

In a conclusive test, sanctioned and certified by the NATA,* Chevrolet proved that it costs least to operate of the three leading low-priced cars tested! Traveling from Los Angeles to New York, Chevrolet recorded up to 17% greater fuel economy and lower total cost for the trip!
Chevy proved its outstanding economy all right, in one of the most thorough and conclusive tests of this kind ever undertaken. Still, Chevrolet's ability to save big hardly comes as a surprise. Its economy is as traditional as its craftsmanship and solid construction. You take for granted Chevy's low operating costs, just as you've come to expect its fine finishing touches and careful attention to details—advantages the other low-priced cars can't quite seem to match. Break Jeweler's Window; Steal Diamond Rings

JERSEYVILLE—Yeggs shattered the south display window of Neil's Jeweler's at 106 North State street some time during the early hours of Saturday morning and stole two sets of diamond wedding and engagement rings from the place.

The burglary and broken window were discovered by William P. Kiantz, one of the proprietors of the B & B Restaurant which is in the same block on North State street as the jewelry store.

Kiantz was enroute to his home on East Carpenter street after working Friday night at the restaurant. He immediately notified Neil Franklin, proprietor of the jewelry store of the situation and police were called on to conduct an investigation.

Franklin reported that the yeggs apparently broke the window with a hammer and reached hurriedly into the opening to obtain the two sets of rings. In their haste, they neglected to take a third set which was in the same grouping with the two stolen. Several valuable watches were also on display in the window in close proximity to the ring sets. Only the rings were taken.

Franklin estimated his loss at about $275.00. He stated the rings stolen were not expensive types as the more valuable diamonds are always removed from display on an evening and placed in night storage in the large safe. He also reported that the loss is covered by insurance.

STAMPEDE AT BLUE SPRINGS

BY GENE OLSON

THE STORY: Omela of Blue Springs refuse to help federal agents in the capture of a criminal who was kidnapped by an armed mob. The town Marshal McNabb resigned in protest, and the officials are about to appoint a new marshal.

turned his head so that I saw his face from the side with light on it. Si Hanna. He'd been run out of Blue Springs at least five years ago after a ruckus with some cowboys. Everybody said it was good riddance. After he left I heard only once about him. He was mixed up in a killing in one of the new cattle towns up north of the Platte. It didn't surprise me or anybody else. The only surprise was that Si was still alive. He was a small man that nobody paid much attention to except when he had a gun and a few drinks. Then he was a big man, ornery and crazy. From my corner, it looked like Si had a pair of guns slung low. He could use those guns, I knew. I should see Blanchard right away, but all I could tell him was that Si Hanna was in town.

PETERSON went back to the table. He rapped with his fist and the talk dropped off in the roof. Peterson said, "Gentlemen, we don't need formality tonight. You know what we have to do. John McNabb saw fit to resign and we need somebody to replace him. Any of you men want the job?"

A few men laughed, low. Peterson looked around, then went on. "I've talked to John and tried to get him to take back the star. He won't. Now the question is, should we try to get along without a marshal for a time?"

A low grumbling rose. Near Peterson, somebody said, "Jordan. If we ever needed one..."

Peterston said, "That's the way I feel. Now suppose we could find a man. What do we want that man to do?"

"You know that, Jordan," the same voice said up front. I recognized the blacksmith, Lars Paul. "We got ourselves right in the middle. Looks to me like everybody's gettin' look care of but us town folks. Reason we

Rep. Green Attends Ohio Conference

State Representative Hugh Green has returned home from Cleveland, Ohio, where he attended the Midwestern Regional Conference of the Council of State Governments, in co-operation with the Ohio Commission on Interstate co-operation.

Among the legislative problems of mutual interest and concern to the 12 states participating in the Conference, were civilian use of atomic energy, problems of the aging, mental health, Education beyond the High School level, highway safety and the overall relationship between the National and State Governments.

The highlight of the Conference was an address by Ohio's Governor, C. William O'Neill, at the state dinner on Tuesday evening at the Hotel Cleveland. He warned state governments of increased federal encroachments unless they faced responsibility on four outstanding issues.

Lightning Hits Home In Pike

Firemen were called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dark on the Griggsville-Pittsfield road. A hole chopped in the roof of the home by firemen to put out the blaze started by the lightning constituted the greatest damage to the property.

more a marshal is to protect me. Looks to me like, first thing, our marshal ought to get rid of this fellow from Omaha City. Why can't our marshal handle this Dorsey trouble?"

"Wait a minute, Lars," Peterson held up his hand. He was looking at me. I stiffened and edged back. I was already as far back as I could go. I didn't move and tried not to breathe. Then Peterson turned up a lamp and a piece of my darkness left me. I felt naked in the sun.

"Get him out," Peterson barked.

LARS PAUL came charging back. I broke open the door. Lars stumbled over a bench. I heard him hit the floor and grunt as I went out the door. I hit the steps running and in the dark, I slipped down the first seven or eight. Then I got my footing and slowed up to keep from stumbling in the dark. At the bottom, I stopped and looked up. Lars was a big shape against the light. I was pretty sure he couldn't see me. Lars went back in. I edged back up the stairs. I'd just got to the top when I heard heavy steps and there was Lars, three feet away and mad. I could smell the whiskey on his breath.

He got one hand on me and I yanked away. I threw me off my balance and I went down the stairs, hitting about one step in three and not losing my footing until I was near bottom. Then I hit the floor in the entryway and slid into the wall and gave my shoulder a bad thump. I got up and jumped out of there and stood against the building by the door, breathing hard over the pain in my chest and rubbing at hurting arrows in my shoulder.

There was nothing to do but wait until the meeting was over. I went around the corner of the building. I knew I could hear them come down the stairs. Maybe they would stand around outside and talk and I could hear a little more. I wondered if I should go to Blanchard. I decided not to, for fear the meeting would break up while I was gone.

Floyd Patterson Retains Heavyweight Crown With TKO

Harry Grayson's

SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

HERSHEY, Pa.—(NEA)—Another Public Links Championship—the 32nd—will be decided in a final 36 holes of match play over the Hershey Park Golf Club course on Aug. 3.

This tournament is more amateur than any other. It is for players who can't afford to join a private club. If the caliber of play is a grade or two below that of the United States Amateur, it's because the combatants haven't the time to perfect their games.

These are week-end drivers who clutter up public layouts instead of highways. They compete in the Public Links during vacation and bring the wives and kids. They may accept first class round trip transportation and $10 a day expense money. Because of the lack of publicity trappings, there are no prima donnas, no problems. The workers just come to play.

Practically every occupation and state and territory is represented.

The defending champion is Junie Buxbaum, an electrical appliance salesman from Memphis. Former champions in the field are Stanley Bielat, Yonkers, N. Y., truck driver, and Andrew Szewko, a steel pipe inspector in Pittsburgh. There are plumbers, tree trimmers, riggers, welders, pit cranimen and rubbish collectors.

The winner has to play a lot of golf. He will have qualified over 72 holes, 36 in his section and 36 at the battle site, and won four 18-hole and two 36-hole matches. There were 1,900 entries with 150 moving on to Hershey. The qualifying rounds at the site determine the 64 getting a whack at match play.

A number of fine golfers came out of the Public Links—Ed Furgol, the 1954 Open champion; Walter Burkemo, the 1953 PGA titleholder; and the touring pros, Jimmy Clark and Ken Venturi, among them.

Clark holds the all-time qualifying record, 64-70-134, in 1946, which beat his own low of 135, turned in the year previous. The 64 is the lowest 18-hole score ever recorded in a U. S. Golf Association tournament.

Frank Strafaci, Pat Abbott, Bruce McCormick and Smiley Quick graduated from the Public Links. The winner qualifies for the Amateur and Quick came closest to bagging the double, when he took Ted Bishop to the 37th hole in the 1946 Amateur at Baltusrol.

The short, tight and wooded Hershey Park course is a positive standout. A brook that is a pain in the neck to shotmakers never stops winding through it. There are water hazards on three-quarters of the holes. The brook is crossed three times playing the 18th. The course is 6,055 yards long and par is 35-28-70.

It is fitting that this year's Public Links is being contested in Hershey, where everything is on the municipal side.

The working stiffs never had it so good.

Mizell, The Cardinals Big 'If', Spins 2-Hit Ball Against Bucs, 4-0

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Unpredictable Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, the big "if" in the St. Louis bid for the National League pennant, pitched a masterful two-hitter Monday night for the Redbirds, 4-0 over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Mizell didn't walk a man and was just two batters away from a perfect game. He had eight innings of three-up, three-down.

A single by Dick Groat and a double by Frank Thomas after two were out in the Pittsburgh fourth was the only threat against Mizell's near-perfect shutout. He struck out Roman Mejias to end that frame.

Wally Moon extended his hitting streak to 15 games and batted in two runs for the Cards.

Charles (Whammy) Douglas, 22-year-old Pirate righthander called up Sunday from Columbus, walked seven men in his five-inning stint but escaped with only two runs against him, one of them unearned.

CONGRATULATIONS CHAMP

Wood Phillips, Nichols Park pro (center) checks the scorecards, Gordon Ledford (right) offers his congratulations to Paul Keller following Keller's 2 up victory over Ledford Sunday afternoon in the finals of the championship flight of the Nichols Park Open.

Keller, who coaches at Jonathan Turner Junior High, took a one under par three on the 31st hole for a 1 up margin and netted another one under par four on the final 36th hole for the 2 up stroke advantage and the Nichols Park crown.

Ledford was 1 up after nine holes but Keller came on strong on the next nine to even the count at 71-all after the first 18 holes. Ledford regained his one up margin after 27 holes. Keller caught up with Ledford with an even par on the 30th hole while Ledford went one stroke over the par three. Keller then went one up on the next hole, which was enough to claim the title.

Keller's score for 36 holes, 36-35-35-34—140. Ledford, 35-36-34-37—142. It was Keller's first open title, he has been runnerup several times.

Jackson Fails To Mark Patterson In 1st Defense

NEW YORK (AP)—There wasn't a mark on Floyd Patterson in his defense of his world heavyweight title Monday night against Hurricane Jackson.

The champ said he was ready for his title match with Pete Rademacher Aug. 22 and would leave for Seattle Aug. 12. He plans to return to training camp in a day or two.

"I knew it would be a tough fight," he said, "and I was prepared for it. It was just about the same as the first only the first was tougher. His elbows and his flapping style made it difficult to hit him."

Patterson said Jackson talked to him about five times during the battle. Each time he said "come on, and fight."

An observer wisecracked "the trouble was, Patterson did." Jackson's left eye was almost closed and there was a big eye on the left eyebrow. He claimed he wasn't hurt and didn't think Goldstein should have stopped the fight.

"I could have gone on," he said. Jackson said he thought he won "a few rounds" but he called Patterson "better than last time."

Explaining the knockdowns, Jackson said he "bent his leg" when he went down in the first round. "After that my legs got lazy."

Jackson sang the old song of the loser when he muttered that "the referee had no right to stop it."

But his manager, Lippy Breidbart, stood in a corner and sported disgust.

"He didn't follow my instructions. If he had, he would have won the fight."

Would he permit Jackson to fight any more after the fearful beating he took?

"That's up to the fighter," said Breidbart.

Illinois is among some Big Ten universities which has experienced inroads by other conference schools on local talent. A dozen or so highly prized state prep schools have migrated to such Big Ten schools as Northwestern, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan State, and Purdue and to such other universities as Southern Methodist, Houston and Vanderbilt.

"Success of the new financial plan depends upon the policing and enforcing of it," Illinois Athletic Director Doug Mills told the Associated Press. "In this aspect, I find it very discouraging. It is too early to condemn the plan or admit it as a success."

Dickens aides probably will direct the Hoosiers football team this season.

The five assistants who accompanied him to Indiana from Wyoming are Bob Hicks, line coach; Lou McCullough, end coach; Wilbur O. Stevens, backfield coach; John Townsend, assistant line coach; and Burnie Miller.

If an acting head coach is named, one Indiana source said, he would be either Hicks or Stevens.

An Indiana spokesman said the preliminary plans for the emergency have been made. Dickens will be paid his $15,000 salary while he serves the suspension.

"While serving his suspension, it is easier to list what Dickens cannot do rather than what he can do," said Asst. Commissioner Bill Reed.

"He cannot attend banquets attended by prospective students of Indiana. He cannot attend football practices. He cannot attend an Indiana football game in such a way that he could have contact with his assistants or the squad. He cannot hold staff meetings as such. In short, he cannot maintain any professional duties connected with the position of head football coach."

Recruiting Violations Being Investigated By Big 10 Conference

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Investigations of numerous rumors and allegations of recruiting violations are being conducted by the Big Ten, Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson said Monday.

Announcement of continuous investigations came in the wake of the one-year suspension of Indiana University's football coach, Phil Dickens, for offering illegal payments to prospective athletes.

"There are fewer complaints from Big Ten schools in general circulation under the new financial aid plan," said Wilson. "But there are more of them coming directly in to our office than in the past."

Wilson said each report or allegation is being investigated, adding that the rumors "involve every Big Ten institution."

"A number of rumors are being investigated to determine where they fall," said Wilson. "There also have been a number of discarded for lack of evidence."

The penalty against Dickens, former University of Wyoming coach who signed a five-year contract at Indiana for $15,000 annually only last January, is the most severe against an individual in Big Ten history.

He is out of coaching for the 1957 season and also will miss 1958 spring practices unless Indiana successfully bids for his reinstatement at the faculty representatives regular December meeting.

Faculty men, in a special meeting in Chicago Sunday, held that Dickens had violated the financial aid plan adopted last Feb. 22. It permits aid only on the basis of computed need, and in no event may this aid exceed the costs of board, room, books, tuition and fees.

WHEAT FUTURES

TURN BULLISH

ADVANCE CENT

By EARL AYKROID

CHICAGO, (U)—The wheat futures market, in the doldrums most of last week, took a bullish turn Monday and most contracts were up a cent at the close of trading.

Rye, influenced by the action in wheat, moved up nearly three cents. Soybeans, down most of the session, advanced in later dealings as liquidation let up. Only corn and oats finished lower.

New crop wheat closed 1/4 to 1 cent higher, corn to 1 cent lower, oats 1/4 to 1/2 lower, rye 2 1/4 to 3/4 higher, soybeans 1/4 to 1/2 higher and lard 2 cents lower to 20 cents higher.

Some moderate buying by a few large bakery chains was credited for the upturn in wheat futures. Traders said flour business is long overdue in the market and they expect it will continue to improve the rest of the week.

The bread grains were in demand Monday by exporters as well as flour millers. Buying by flour mills followed fair improvement in domestic flour bookings.

Early losses of almost two cents a bushel in soybeans were wiped out as liquidation eased. An evening buying spurt resulted in gains of more than a cent in some contracts.

Corn and oats ended the trading session lower, influenced by continued favorable crop weather.

New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (U)—The stock market Monday took the sharpest dip since Feb. 11.

The decline ranked among the worst of the year, but it happened without fanfare in the way of big news. Based on the fall in the average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange dropped an estimated 2 1/4 billion dollars.

Steel, motors, coppers and rails took steep losses, pacing the retreat for the rest of the list. Losses among pivotal issues went from fraction to around $2 or more.

Wall Street observers saw it primarily as a technical decline, similar to most of the other big declines of this year. They noted that the market has been moving in a more or less sideways fashion for the past two weeks, since its failure to pierce the record highs of 1956. The day-to-day market movements since then have lacked conviction.

Since the market could not generate enough steam to go upward, analysts said, the "line of least resistance" seems to be downward. At the same time, some disappointment in Wall Street was reported regarding various corporate earnings and a concern with the squeeze on profits.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $2.20 to $184.90 from the industrial down $3.60, the rails down $2.70 and the utilities down 10 cents.

Volume totaled 1,900,000 shares compared with 1,710,000 on Friday. The market was irregular at the start but a lower tendency soon developed. A sharp selloff occurred in mid-morning. Trading was quiet active as prices fell. This was followed by a recovery trend, but it was wiped out by quiet weakness in the afternoon.

Prices fell on the American Stock Exchange where volume totaled 870,000 shares compared with 890,000 Friday.

DOG TIRED—This must be the little guy that all those things that shouldn't happen to a dog did. The "best friend" who appears to need a pal is "Linda," a two-year-old Albino Pekingese. It's a tough life, or maybe it's just the heat in New York City.

OUNCE OF PREVENTION

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP)—Charles J. and Charles A. Zito, father and son, say one way to keep young people out of hotrods is to get them up in the air. "I got Charles interested in flying so he wouldn't go roaring around the highways in hotrods and on motorcycles," said the father, a private pilot since 1935. The two built a plane themselves and Charles A. soloed at 16. "It beats hotrodding every time and isn't nearly as dangerous," the younger Zito said.

Another $500 For New Hospital

Sponsoring a successful home talent variety show is vastly more profitable than sponsoring a carnival, officials of the Combined Veterans Organization and Auxiliary reported last week.

The organization has pledged $12,000 to build the emergency room of the new Our Saviour's hospital.

The variety show held last fall netted $2,300 toward the pledge. The profit from the carnival held last month was only $500—which was probably less than a dollar an hour for the time the members gave to the project.

FOOT TROUBLE—More than two feet of trouble for the Army is what the tape measure shows. Pfc. John Ano, 23, of Trenton, N.J., is having trouble being fitted by the Army. In fact, after a year of service he still hasn't been fitted with the 16 AAA brogans or the 17 1/2 socks he wears. Ano is pictured at Letterman Army Hospital in San Francisco, where the Army is trying to solve his problems. Until they do, he'll be the envy of all G.I.s with his sandals and argyle socks.

Joseph Persifull, 72, Former Teacher, Dies

Joseph H. Persifull, 72, former teacher, baseball manager, who was credited with "discovering" the famous Ty Cobb, died at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning at Passavant hospital.

A former resident of Newton, Ill., Mr. Persifull had been a resident of Jacksonville about 12 years.

For a number of months he was a resident of the Duncan Nursing Home, prior to entering the hospital.

While managing a minor league team in Georgia, Persifull first came in contact with Ty Cobb, who for many years was one of baseball's greatest players. Persifull had confidence in the 18 year old Cobb, and put him in a lineup where his action was questioned by the management. Cobb repaid Persifull's judgment by hitting a couple of home runs.

Mr. Persifull was born near the village of Yale in Jasper county, Illinois, moving with his parents to Newton, where he attended school. He graduated from the University of Illinois and returned to Newton, teaching there until elected superintendent of schools in Jasper county.

After coming to Central Illinois, Mr. Persifull was principal of the Roodhouse schools five years, taught at Havana, and in other schools in this section of the state.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Dora Mehl, residing at the Soldier and Sailor's Home in Quincy; one brother, Jack Persifull of Pennsylvania.

The body was taken to the Rees Funeral Home at Newton, Ill. Burial will be made in the Yale cemetery.
